WEIMAR HIGH SCHOOL
WEIMAR, TEXAS
Volume XXXII

The Students at WHS

The students at W.H.S. are the best!
They enjoy having fun and nothing less!
When school starts, the sun is sure to shine;
Ask them how they're doing and they'll tell ya, "Just fine."
Well, W.H.S. is a great place to start
There's lots of love and sharing, and I tell ya
It's right from the heart.

Our New High School in the First Stages

We never did know her first name. (Does a seventh-grade teacher ever have a first name?) She was moon-faced, dumpy, lumpy, and we hated her. We hated her as only a pack of 12-year-olds can hate an arithmetic teacher. Actually, Miss Casey did not teach arithmetic, but that is how much we hated her.

She taught English. No, “taught” does not convey the particular flavor of her tutelage. She policed English; she enforced it. She drilled us in spelling and grammar and syntax. She drilled us in composition and cases and Spencerian script.

Whenever one of us made a mistake, Miss Casey sent the criminal to the blackboard. “Go to the board” made us break into sweats. For we were sent to the board to diagram a sentence — a sentence equivalent to baring your back for 40 lashes. We had to separate an entire subject from an entire predicate; we had to designate both direct and indirect objects. We had to expose sneaky adjectives posing as nouns, adverbs pretending to be adjectives and clauses masquerading as independent when they were dependent as #S*#! We had to break the back of those dastardly participles that dangled.

When a correction offered at the blackboard was itself wrong, Miss Casey made you correct that, explain why it was wrong, and propose the proper remedy. And even if the remedy was right, that wasn’t enough for Miss Casey: you had to explain why it was right. “It is possible to be right for the wrong reason,” she would say. “And it is possible to guess the right answer. The only way you can be right is to know why.”

I began by saying that we hated Miss Casey. That is not entirely true. I only pretended to hate her. Every afternoon, when we spilled into the schoolyard with the ululations of hostages freed from some fearful dungeons, we stood around complaining of one teacher’s homework and another’s temper. For Miss Casey were reserved our most bitter howls of injustice. I joined in the execrations; indeed, I sometimes outsnarled the whole pack of persecuted children. So strong is the need of a boy to “belong,” to win the approval of even the grubbiest of his companions.

Secretly, my respect for Miss Casey grew, day by day. Even more astonishing, my affection for her mounted too. For I fell under the spell of what I can only call her incorruptibility. I began to feel excitement when I entered her classroom, a quickening of the senses. In explaining how a sentence works, how its parts fit and mesh and move to wheel out meaning, Miss Casey was leading me into a sunlit realm of order. In the same odd way that a cross-section drawing of, say, a cement truck can attain a certain beauty, the cursed diagramming of sentences began to reveal the lovely skeleton of English.

Miss Casey was making grammar the agent of thinking, diction the instrument of exactness, syntax the servant of what, in a finer time, used to be called right reason. I even came to see that the iron laws of language were not manacles to the imagination; they were the royal road to the palace of self-expression.

Miss Casey, please note, made no effort to get us to like her; she was indifferent to popularity. What she got was respect. She knew that she knew far more than we did, and went about transmitting knowledge, and endowing us with skill, with unflinching purpose.

Miss Casey took it for granted that learning is not easy and that discipline should brook no diminishing. Perhaps she even suspected what I have come to believe. Things that are hard to learn give students rewards which “learning made easy” never can; the pride of overcoming obstacles; the self-respect of solving problems (the harder the problem, the greater the satisfaction); the sheer strength gained from perseverance.

“Tough” teachers win their students’ gratitude — in time — for not pampering them, by knowing the high price that will be paid by children who are encouraged to indulge their natural resistance to hard, even boring, tasks.

From “O Blessed Tyrant!” by Leo Rosten

Superintendent

My association with the Weimar High School students during the 1982-1983 School Year has been very enjoyable. That year is now past, and even though it holds many fond memories, we must look to the future.

In that respect, I would like to share a few brief thoughts with you in relation to life.

LIFE IS LIKE A SPIDER WEB!

The poor spider has such a hard life. He builds and battles all day, every day. The web that he weaves is so fragile that even the wind will blow it down, and yet he depends upon it for transportation and his breakfast, lunch, and dinner each day.

The spider doesn't ever quit building. His well-being depends upon his ability to string his web in the right place and to keep it strung day after day.

WHEN HE QUILTS DOING WHAT HE DOES BEST, HIS LIFE IS OVER.

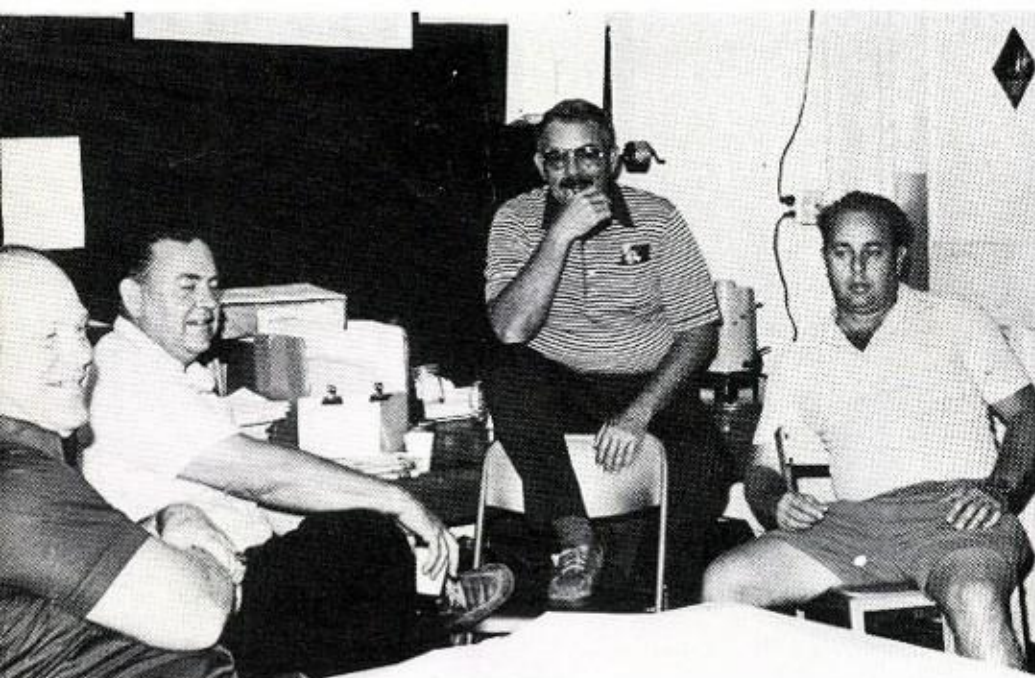

We could all take some advice from the spider. He works hard. He does his job well. He is rewarded for his work.

As students living from day to day, you are investing your time and talents in various things. Are the things you are investing in really important to your futures?

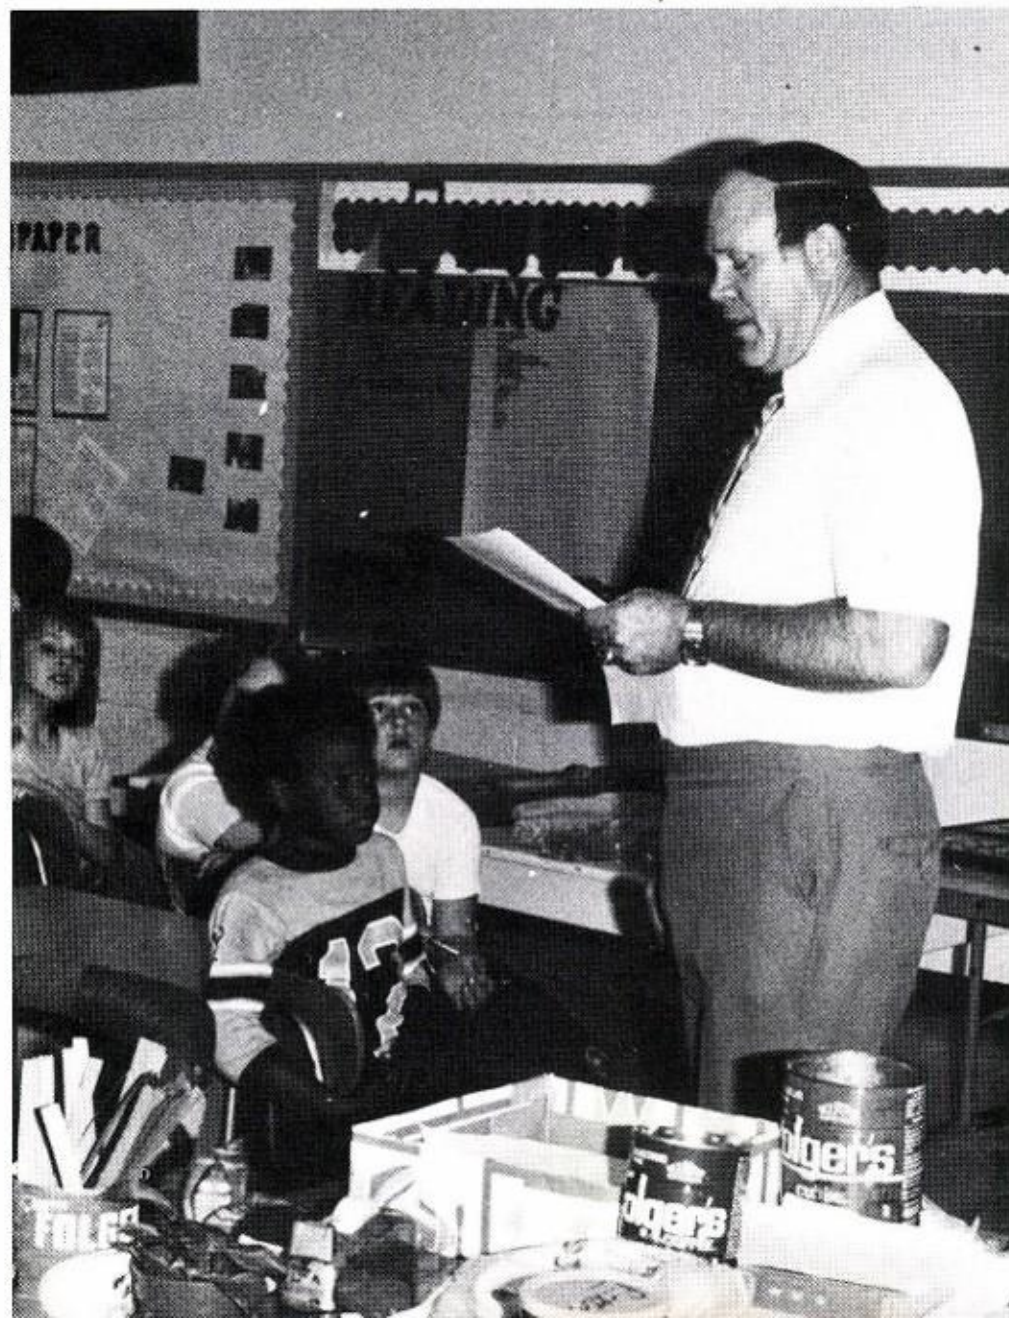

Whatever you are doing had better be important! Each day costs you a day of your lives. As you build your webs, be sure they are built sturdy. Work hard each day to build your webs and maintain them. You will be rewarded accordingly.

May you have continued success in all of your future endeavors.

Wayne T. Wise, Superintendent

School Board

Seated: Dr. Robert Youens, President Catherine Gunn, Mr. Leon Hattermann. Standing: Mr. Jack Sanders, Mr. James Heger, Mr. Charles Trefny, Mrs. Laurene Hayward.

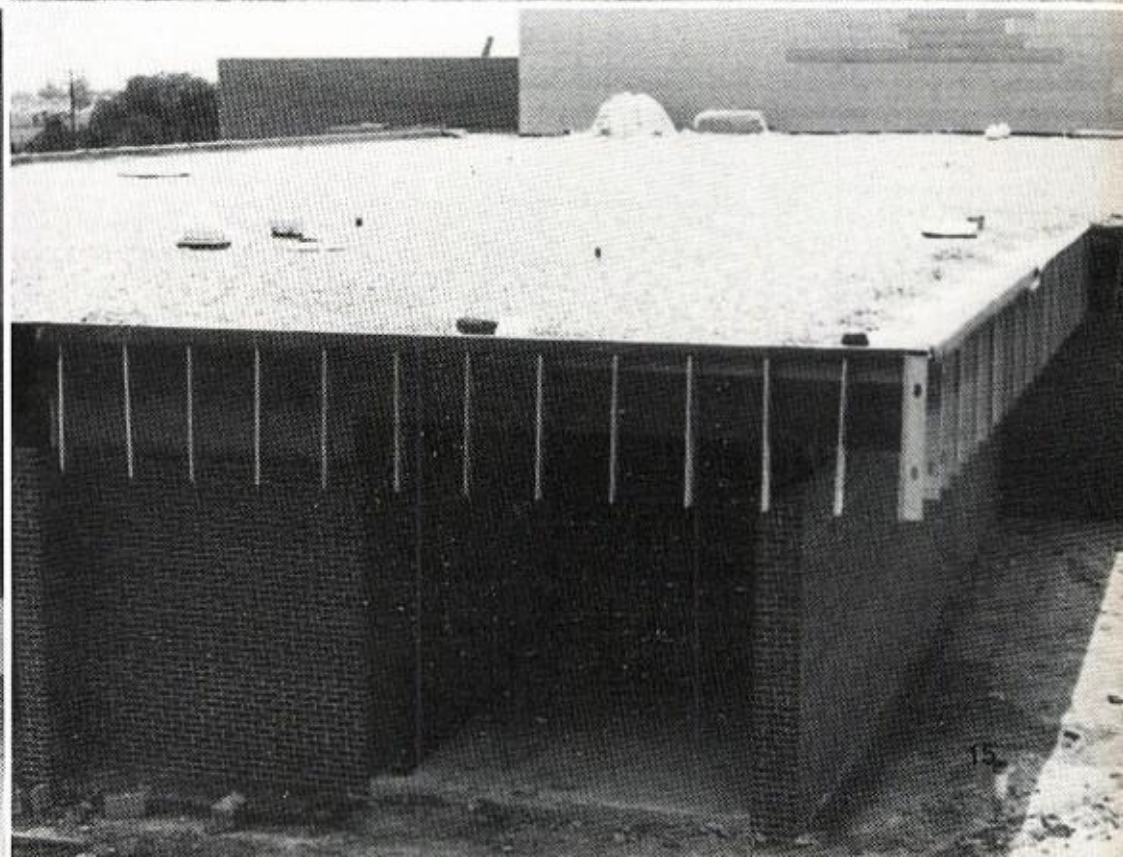

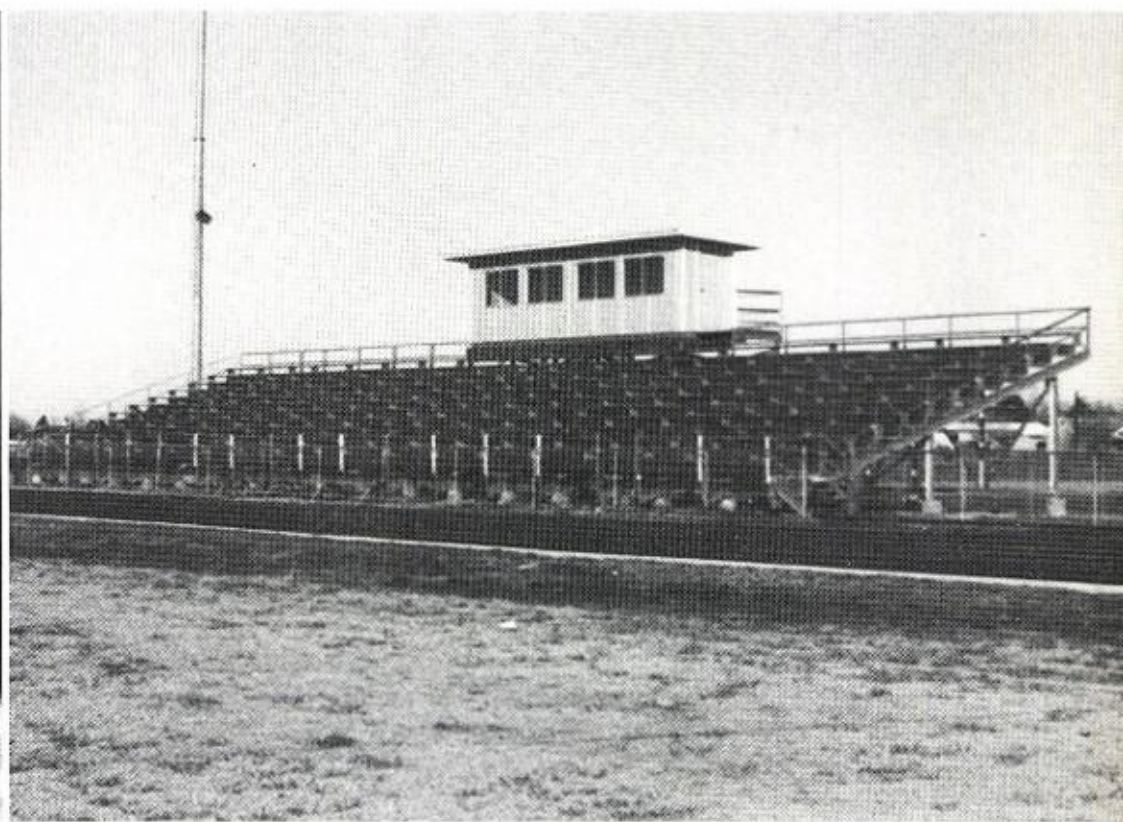

We members of the Board of Education of Weimar Independent School District are enjoying watching the growth of the new high school building and athletic facilities. Fall of '82 saw the Wildcat Football team playing in the new stadium, even though some of the facilities were incomplete. We were especially happy to initiate the new track and field layout. Both hometown supporters and visitors were complimentary of these facilities which our campus has never had.

Just because the new high school building is an obvious improvement is no sign that the Elementary School and the Junior High School have been ignored. Both of these buildings and their respective campuses have been upgraded during the year so that the staff can do a more efficient job with the students.

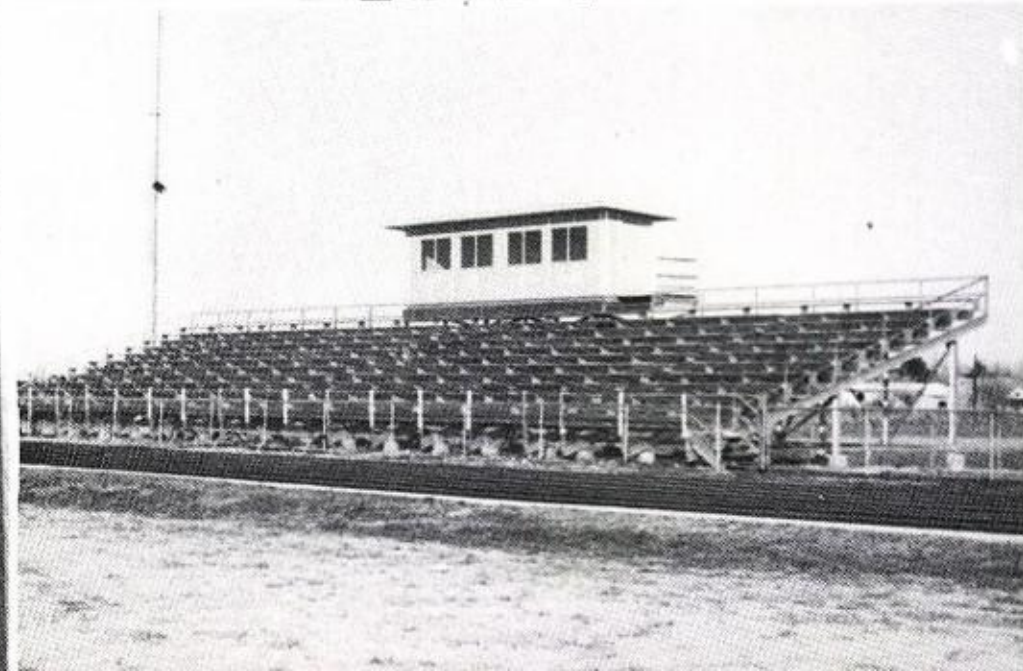

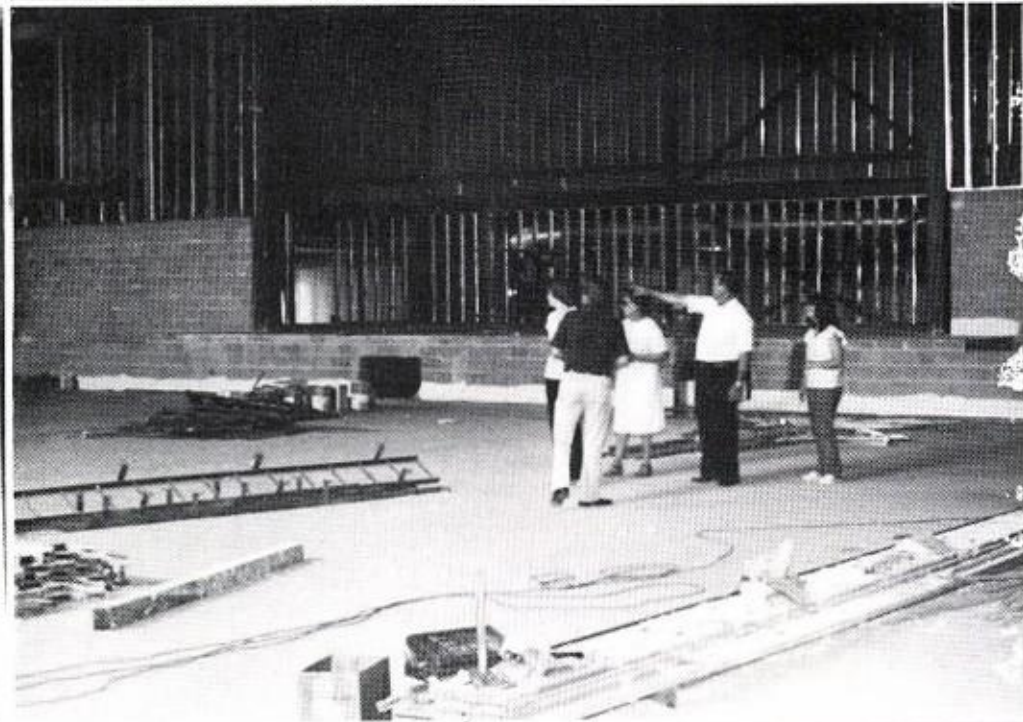

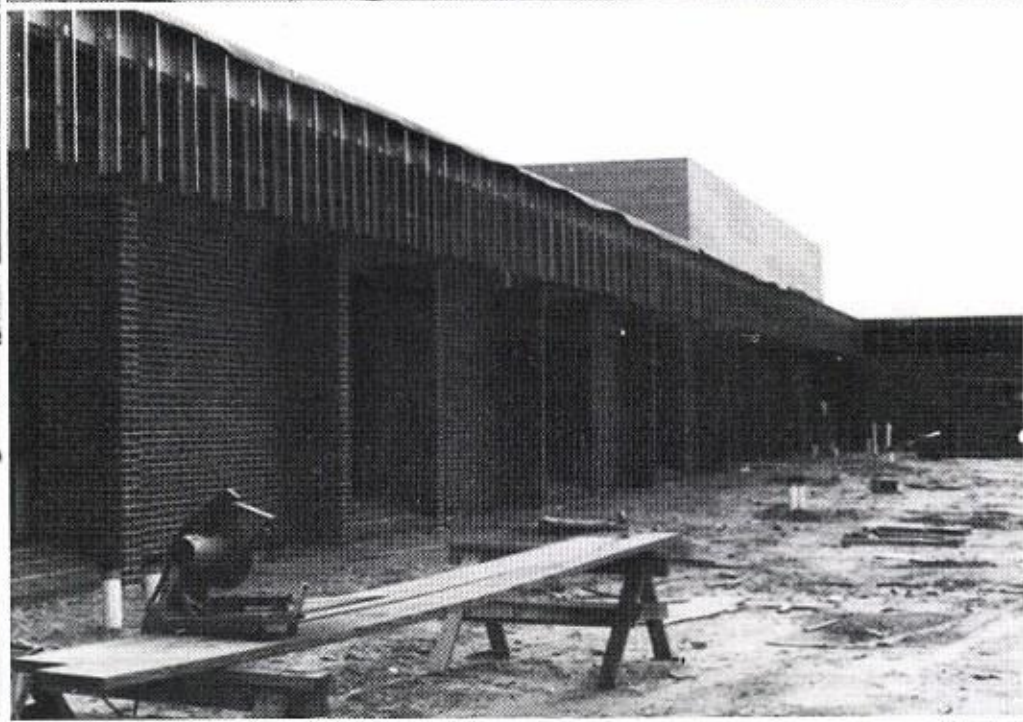

We are not only proud of our physical plant but of the staff of aids, teachers, and administrators who have helped raise the educational standards of our school system. We feel that each student from Kindergarten to Twelfth Grade has had an opportunity to learn the basics plus from these instructors.

Charles, Jack, Leon, James, Robert, Laurene, and I have enjoyed serving the students and the rest of the community as members of "The Board." We hope to continue our efforts to form policies which will build an outstanding school system for Weimar.

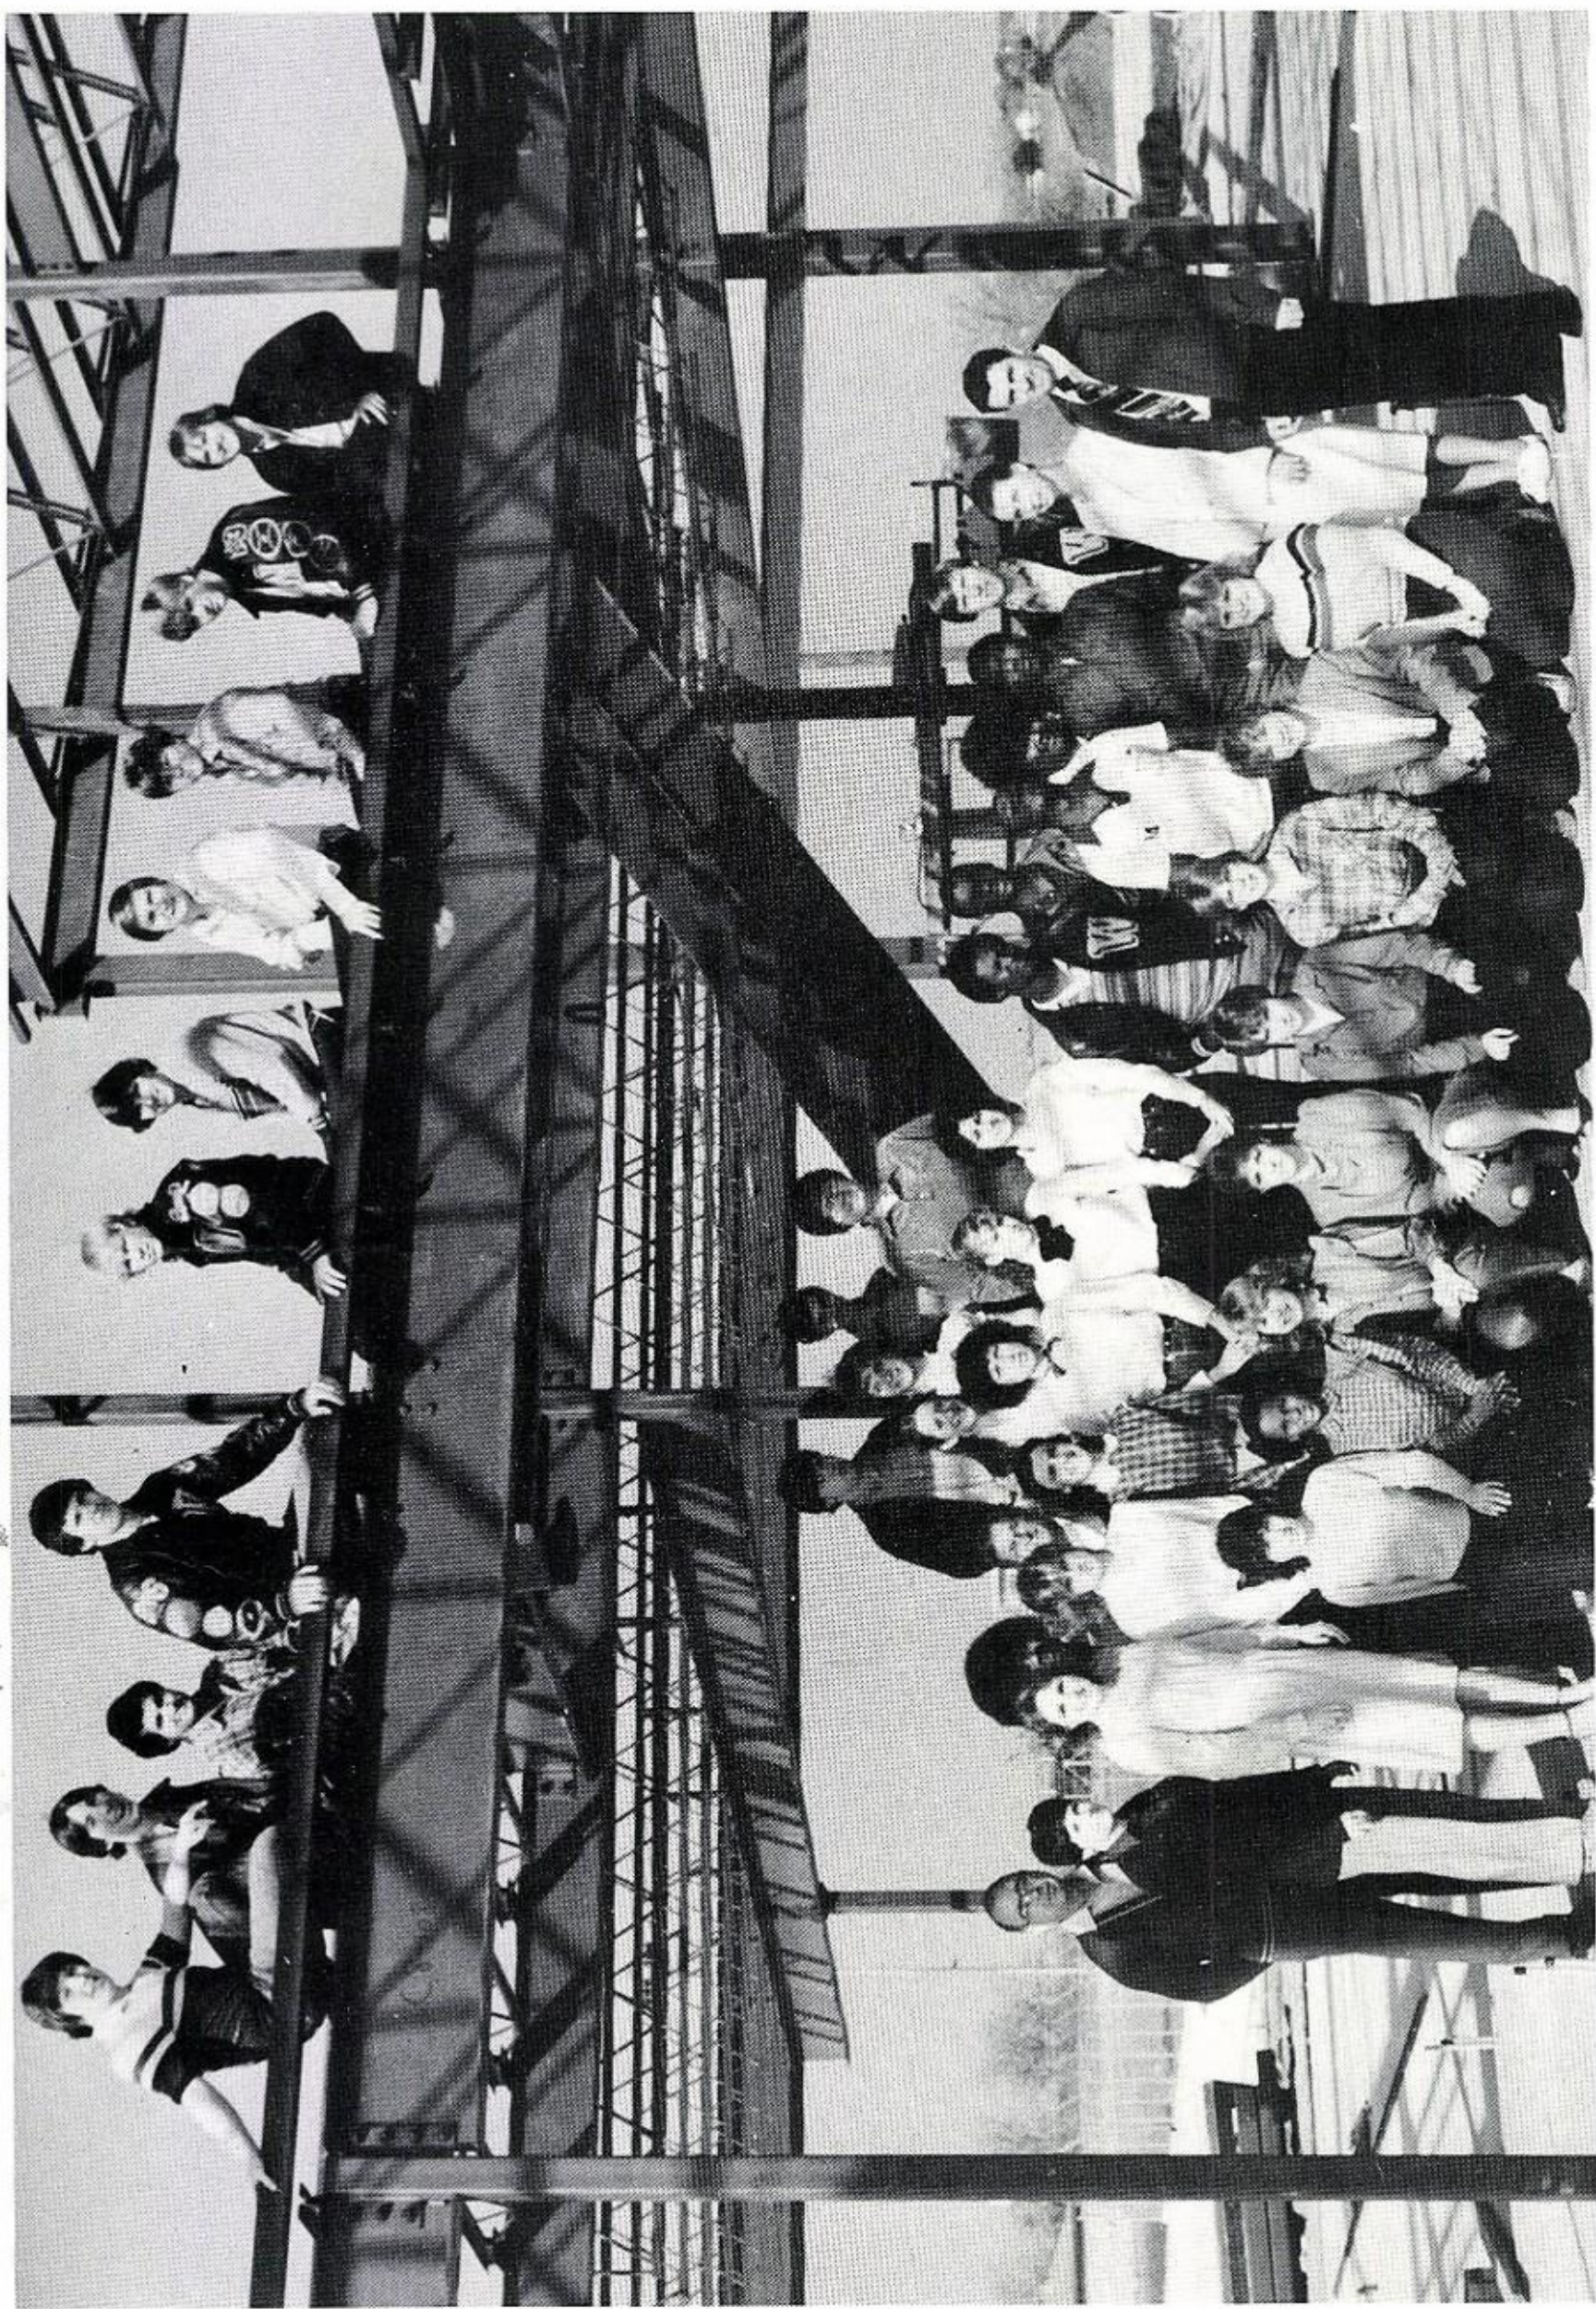

Catherine B. Gunn

LOOKS LIKE WE MADE IT

There you are, looking just the same as you did last time I touched you.
And here I am, close to gettin' tangled up inside the thought of you.
Do you love him as much as I love her,
And will that love be strong when old feelings start to stir?

Looks like we made it, left each other on the way to another love.
Looks like we made it, or I thought so till today, until you were there,
Everywhere, and all I could taste was love the way we made it.

Love's so strange, playing hide and seek with hearts and always hurting.
And we're the fools, standing close enough to touch those burning memories.
And if I hold you for the sake of all those times love made us lose our minds,
Could I ever let you go?

Oh no we've made it, left each other on the way to another love.
Looks like we made it, or I thought so till today, until you were there,
Everywhere, and all I could taste was love the way we made it.
Oh, We made it. Looks like we made it.

One last pose before graduation exercises

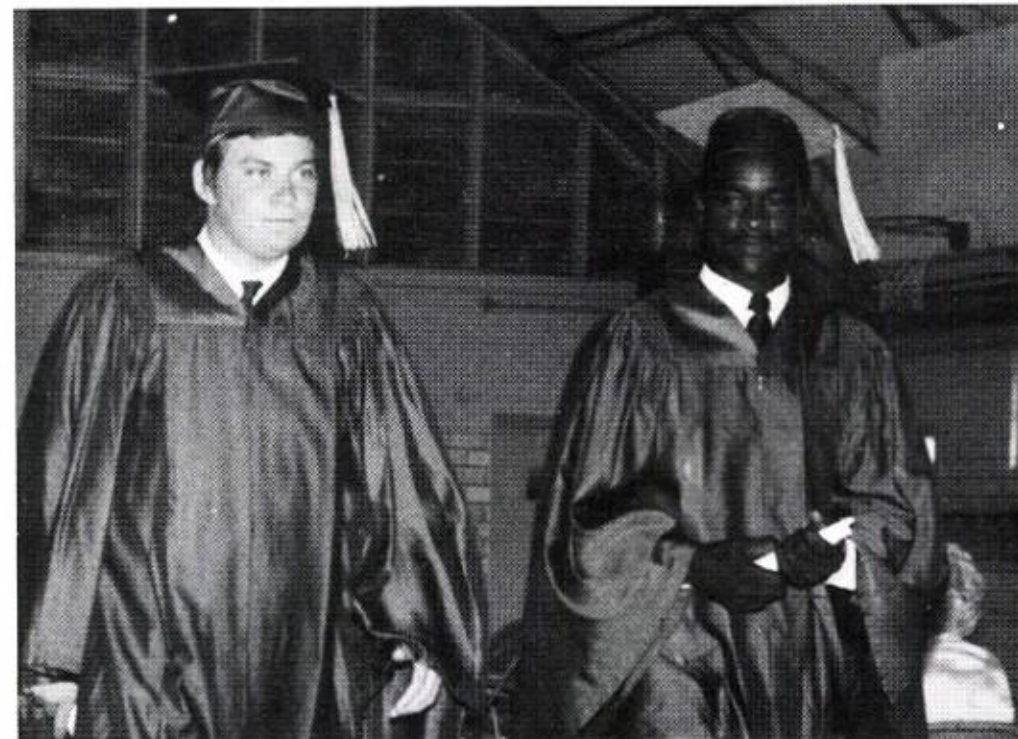

Baccalaureate Breakfast

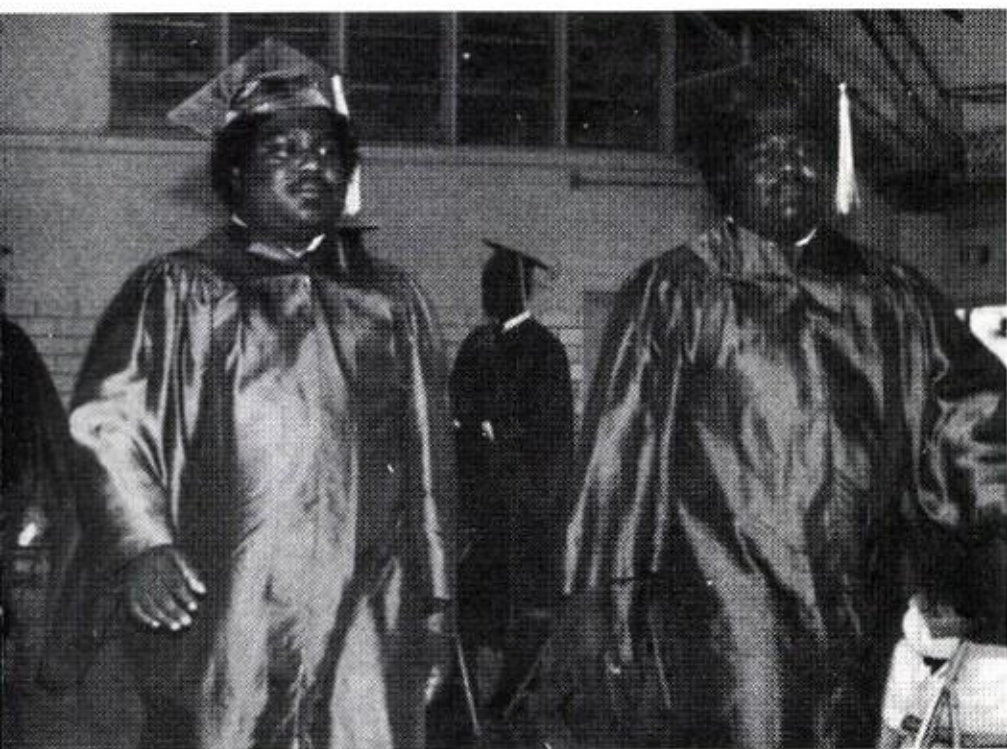

Parents of senior members Derck Koehn and Russell Smith prepared a breakfast for all seniors. At 6:30 A.M. Sunday, May 22 the seniors arrived at Anzel's Guest House and enjoyed an egg and sausage casserole, biscuits, assorted sweet breads, and fruit on a skewer. The dining room was decorated with blue and silver balloons and streamers. The seniors went from breakfast to the Baccalaureate services in the gym.

Hey! This senior pomp is kinda fun —

Or maybe just endurable!

The 1982-83 Graduating Class performed their last official school duty on May 27, 1983 in the new stadium. Friends, relatives, faculty, and school board members gathered in the pleasant spring-like weather to share the celebration of graduation exercises with the proud seniors. The seniors marched in to the music of the Wildcat Band.

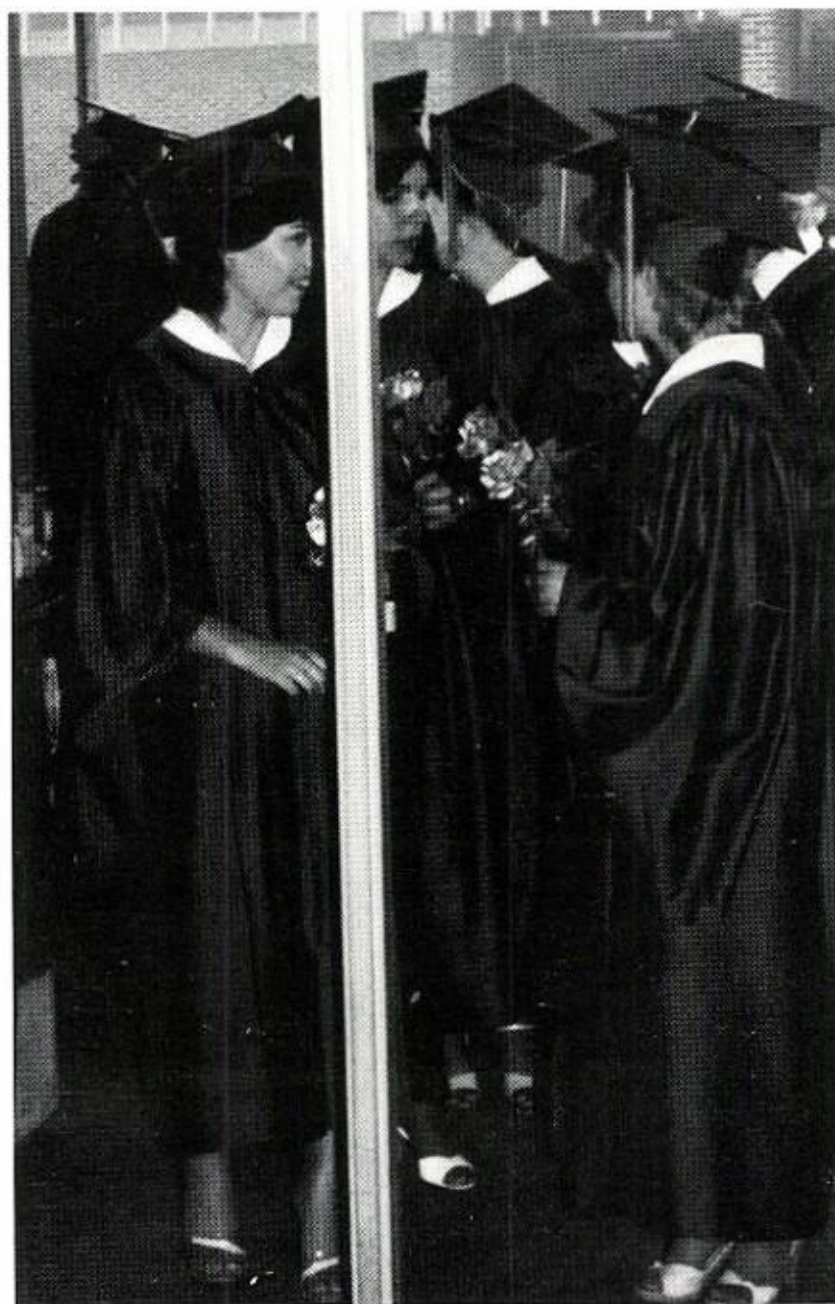

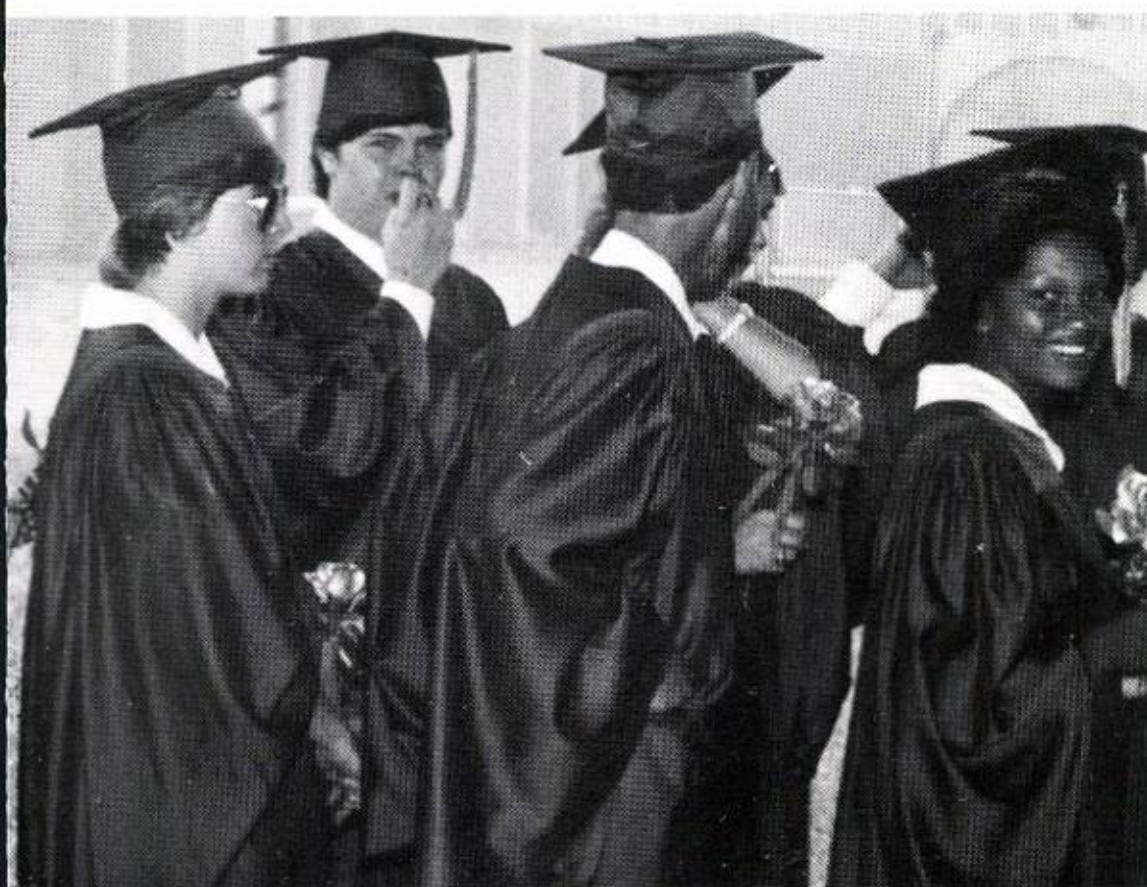

Paul Heger gave the Valedictorian's address and Kelly Carroll gave the Salutatorian's address. Susan Marshall gave the welcome remarks and Tammy Hajovsky, the farewell. Kristen Beken said the invocation and Lisa Neiser, the benediction. Jane Rollins presented the class gift to the school. Supt. Wayne Wise announced special awards and honors. Principal Bob McMahan presented the graduating seniors. School Board President Catherine Gunn presented diplomas.

The seniors left the field with a big smile, a lump in their throat, and even a few tears. All this to a beautiful backdrop of the setting sun.

Success sometimes comes in twos —

Fitting mortarboards for one last time —

Line up! Line up! Haven't we been doing this since kindergarten?

An Evening in Paris

The Junior-Senior Prom was held at the Weimar VFW Hall. The guests included all of the juniors, seniors, their dates, and sponsors. The will was read by Tammy Hajovsky followed by the prophecy which was read by Jimmie Sanders. The couples danced to the music of The Heritage Band.

Why are you smiling, James?

You expect me to believe that? what = DUHCE

What is so interesting?

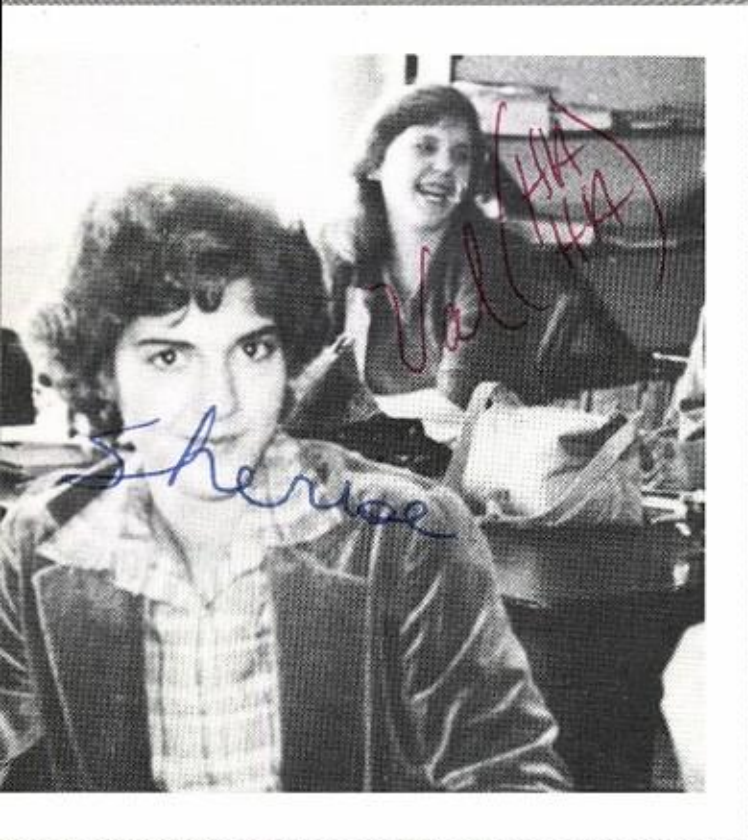

I am the greatest — what can I say?

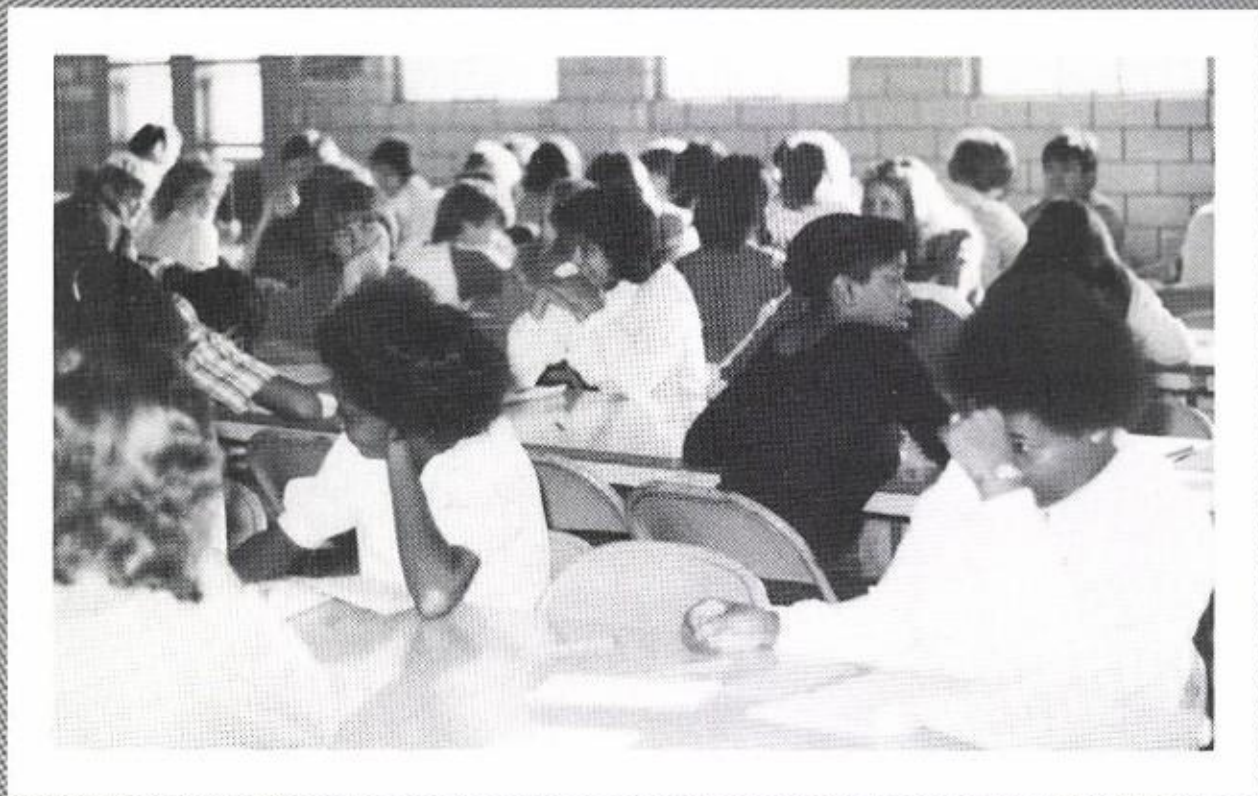

I'm just checking my answers . . .

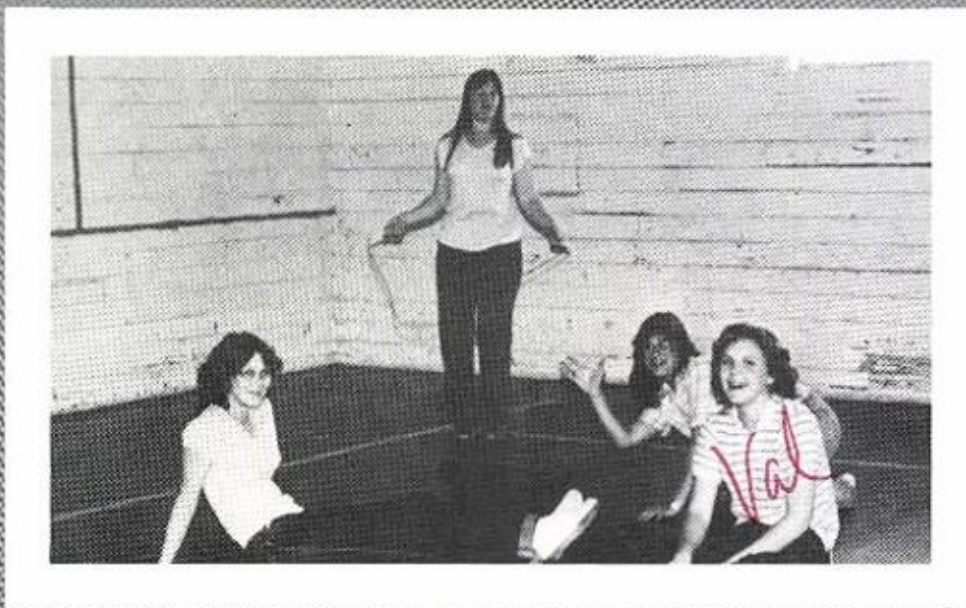

John can't come to the phone now . . . He's all tied up.

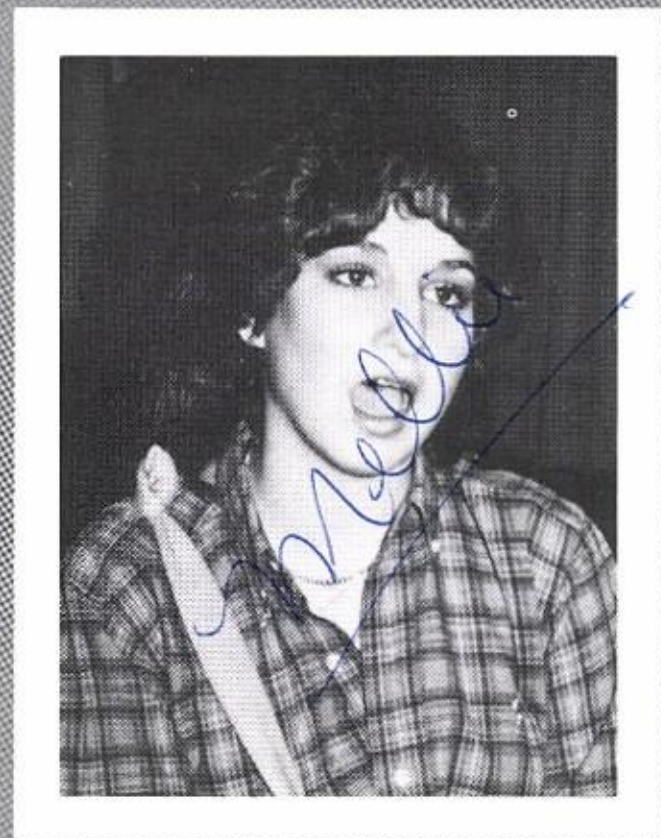

If Mrs. J. only knew how much gum I've got in my mouth right now...

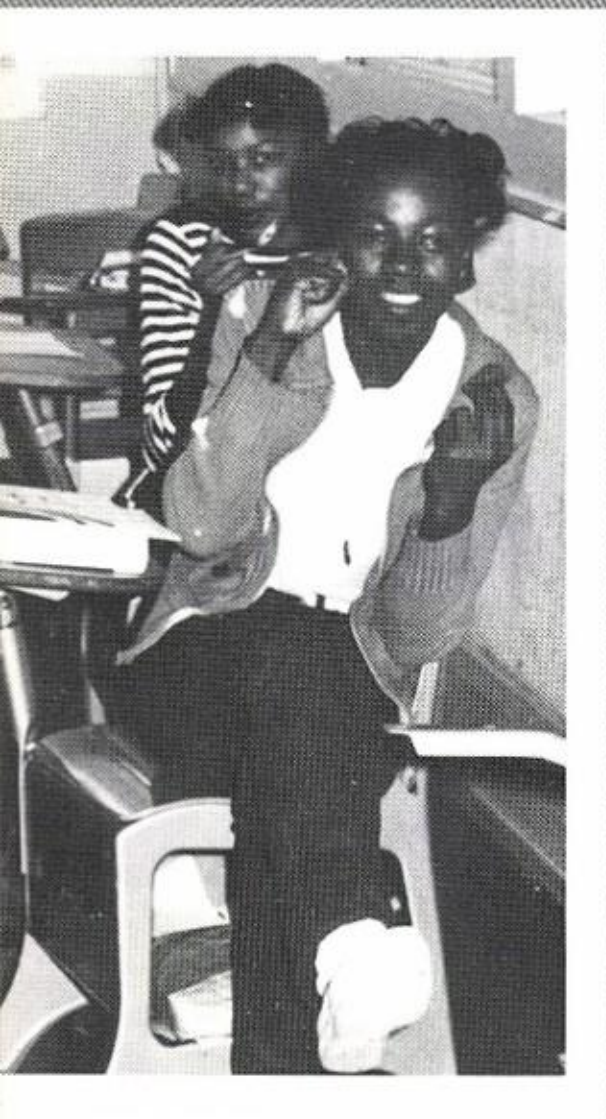

Keep your eyes on your own paper!

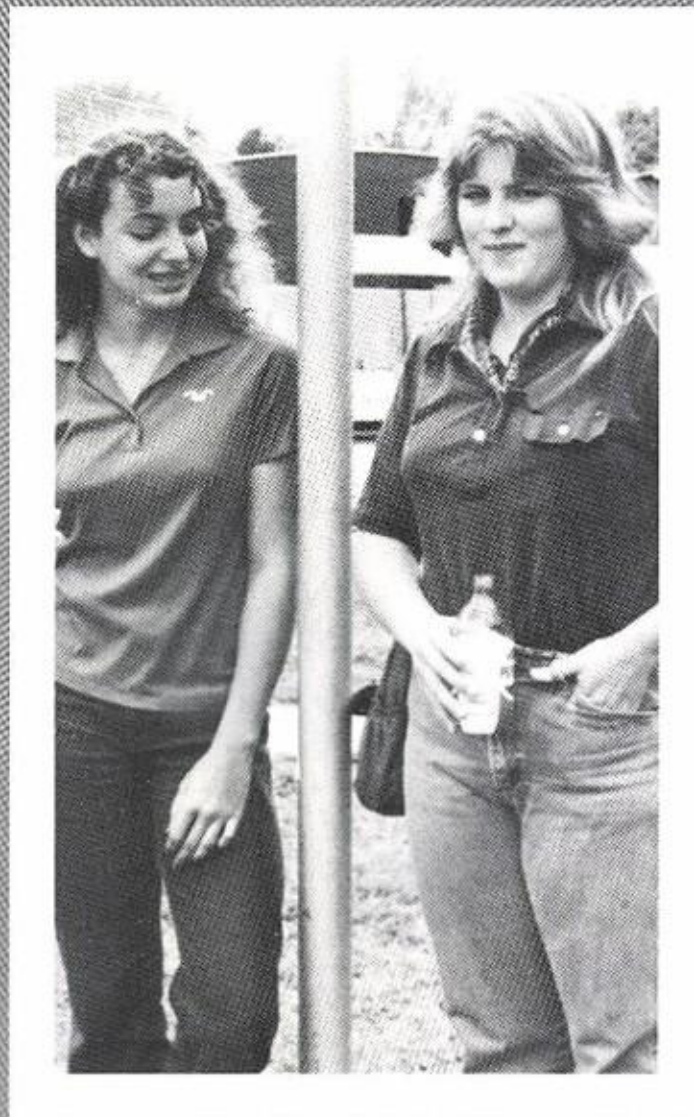

You girls are goofing off again, aren't you?

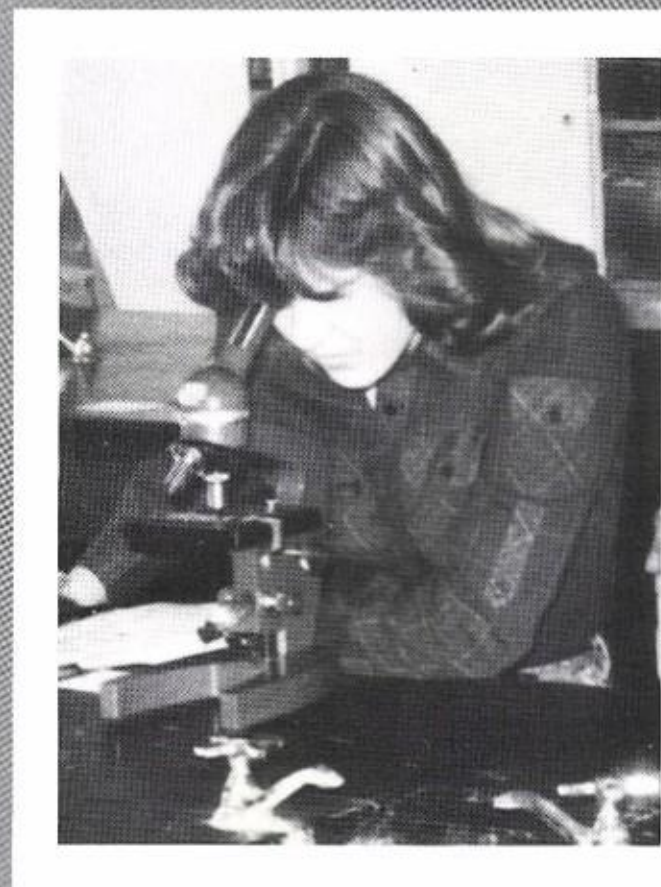

Wow, I could have had a V-8.

Smile, you're on candid camera!

I'd kill for a drink of that Pepsi.

What's so interesting, Valerie?

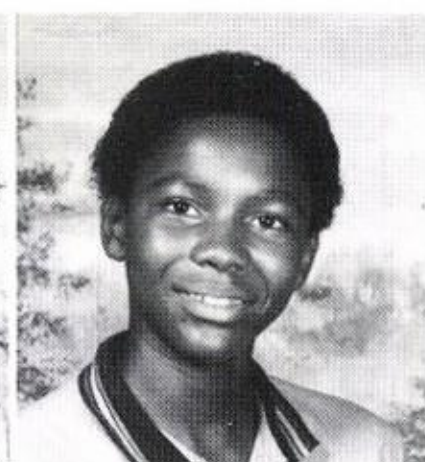

I can't tell you everything

In December, Janet Hattermann, Nancy Obregoner, and Missy Kroll, three editors of the annual, went to Dallas with Mrs. Obregoner for a tour of Taylor Publishing Company. The girls and Mrs. Obregoner drove to Austin and then flew to Dallas to take the tour. There, they saw first hand, what happens to the layout once it leaves the W.H.S. Annual Staff. Taylor Publishing Co. gave a hearty welcome and an informative tour. The privilege of seeing each stage of the publishing process was an interesting and educational experience.

October 4, 1983 my B-DAY

Jimmy (FATHER COOT)

Well here it is your senior year, and I'm a junior. Never ever did I think that I would see the day to where you guys would be graduating from high school. You might not believe this but I use to have this crush on you that could have killed a bad dog! anyway let's forget about that. But that this party #12 Varsity LISA Sister Lisa #12 party you may not remember but at my sweet 16th from the dance, I rode home with you. (Just rode home!) It seems to me in these last few years we've become pretty good friends and I'm really happy for that. Anyway I guess I ought to say what I'm suppose to be writing in here. You're a really great looking guy with a nice looking body and you have everything it takes to make it in life. More of all I hope you do great in college and strike it rich with singing career! And when you do I hope you remember poor little sister Lisa. Well one thing is for sure I will always remember you in my religious days, hope you'll remember me in yours.

Love ya,
Lisa

Each year the top students in the advanced mathematics classes are selected to participate in the National Mathematics Examination. Students in all four high school grades compete against one another, taking the same test given on a certain day during an exact time frame. The test consists of mathematics problems ranging from arithmetic to elementary calculus. Ask any participant, and they will tell you the problems are HARD! Winning the contest this year was a freshman, Bradley Vacek. (We will be expecting more great things from you in the future, Bradley!)

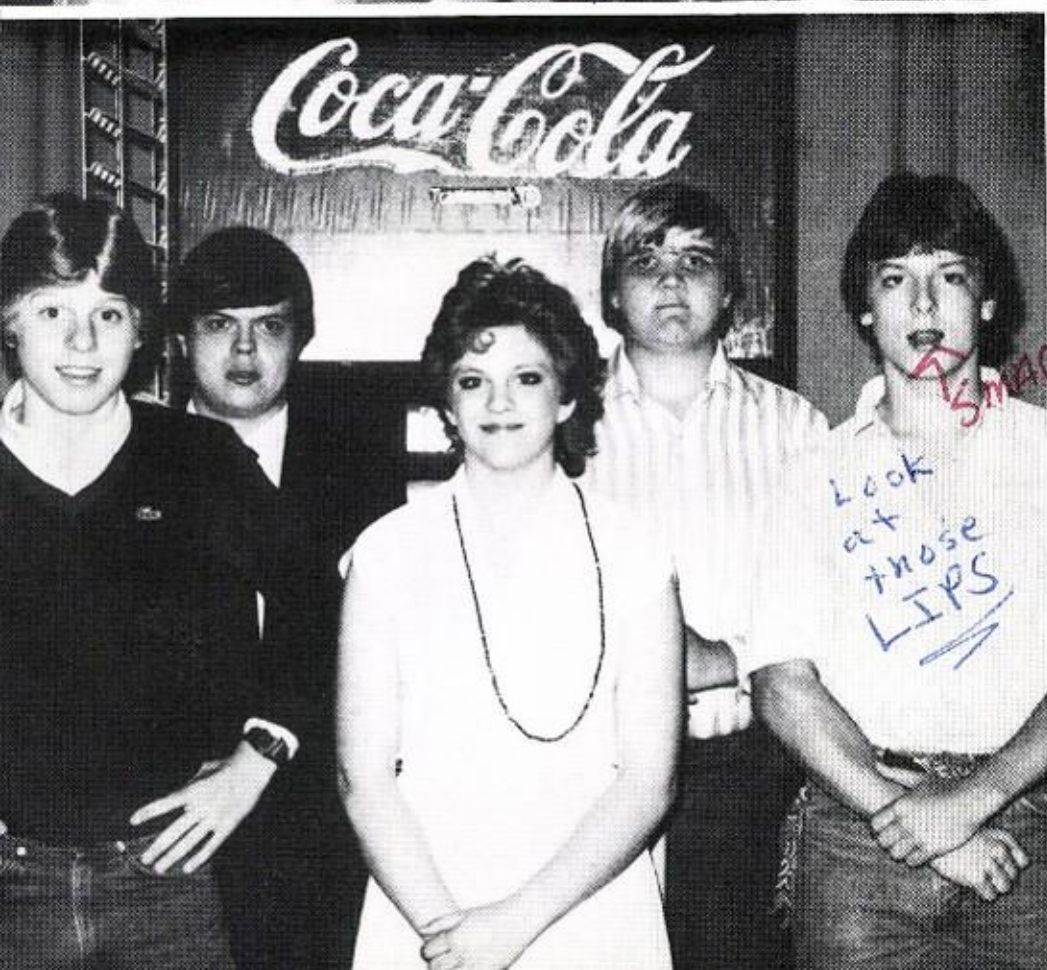

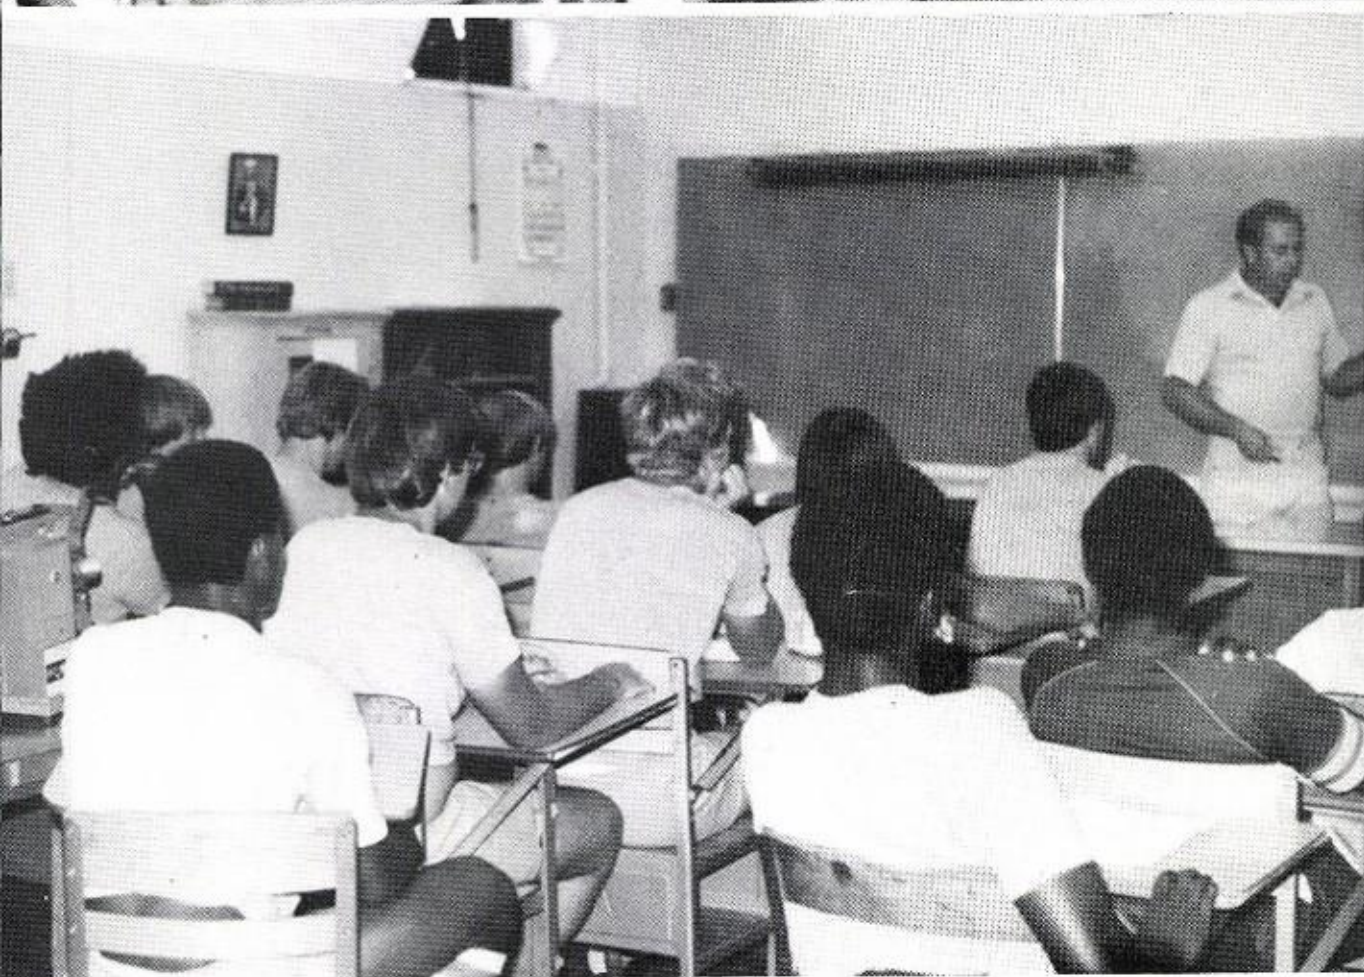

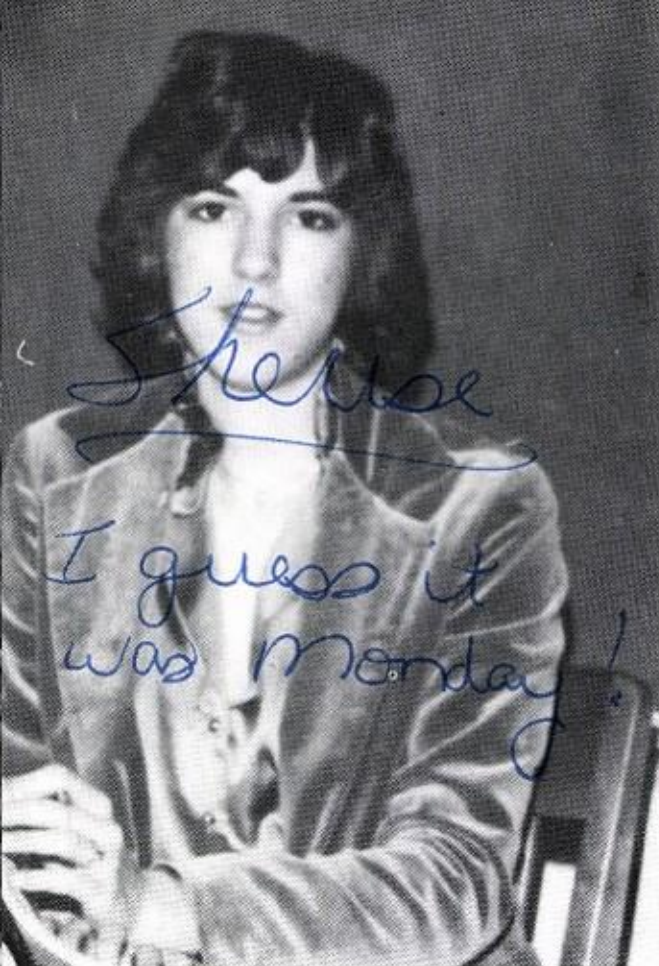

Taking the test along with Bradley were freshmen Carol Pavlik and Jim Vacek; sophomores Lisa Michalke and Roger Smith; juniors Missy Kroll, Charlene Kolek, Janet Hattermann, Nancy Obelgoner, Tim Kram, Jimmy Sanders; and seniors Susie Marshall, Kristen Beken, and Kelly Carroll.

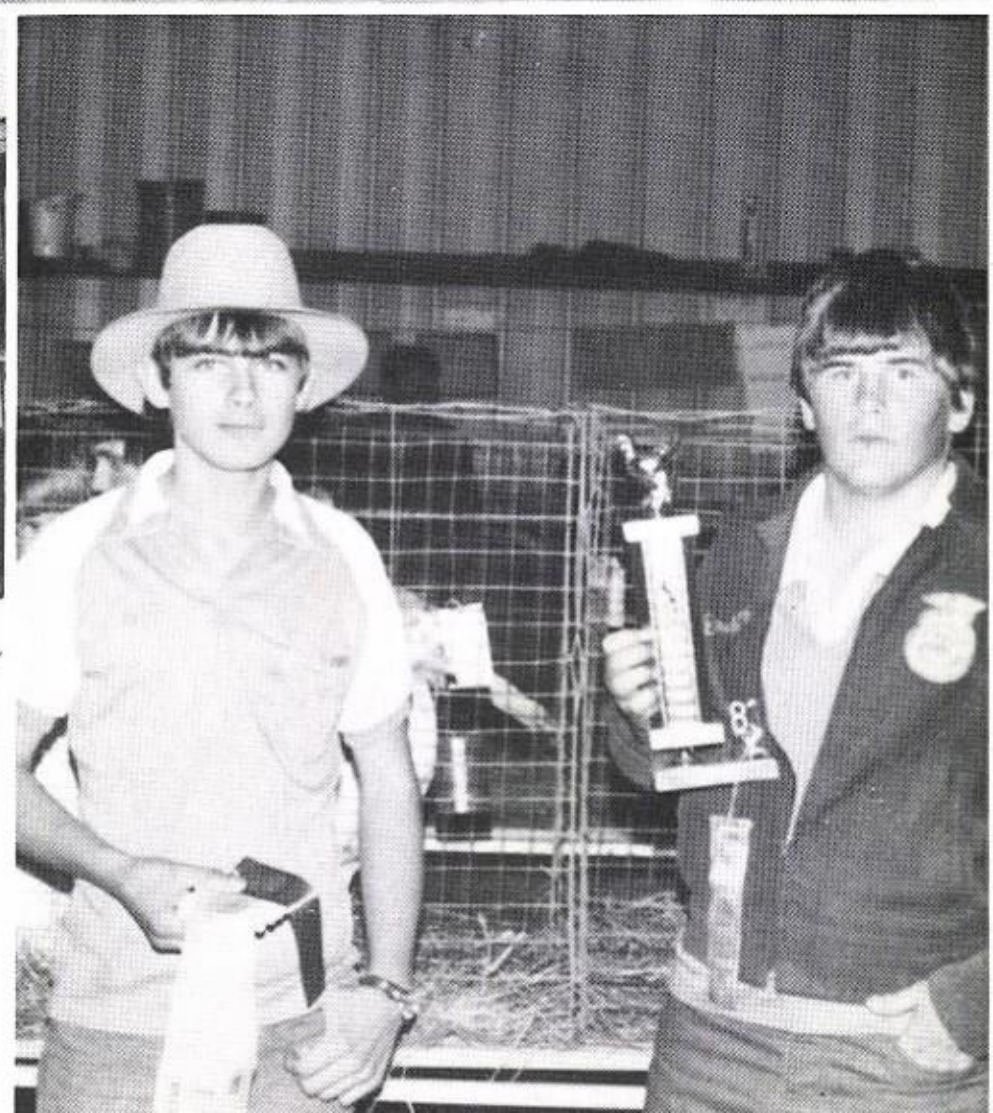

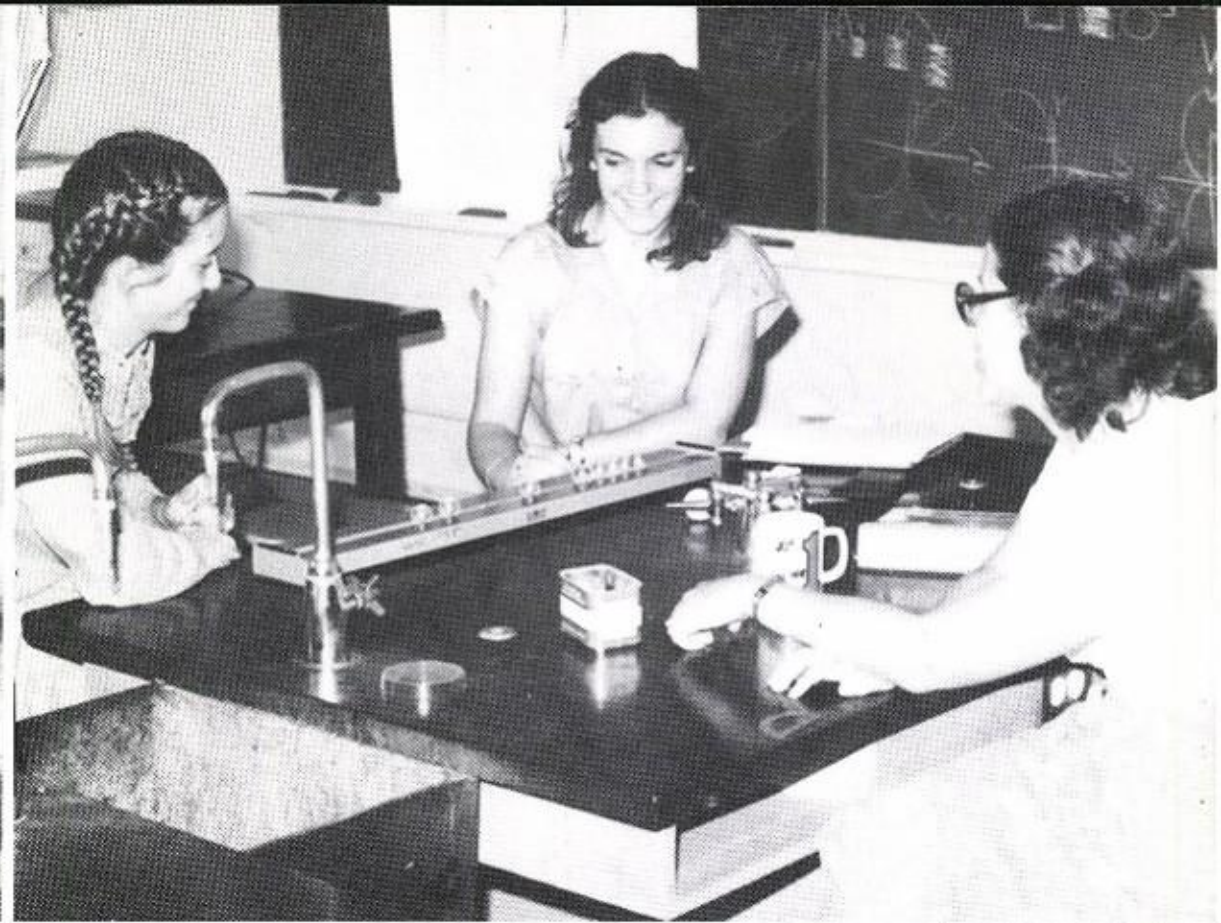

Advanced Mathematics teacher Ms. Obelgoner presenting Bradley Vacek the award pin for high score on the National Mathematics Examination.

Sometimes it seems school is made up of all the extras — pep rallies, games, club meetings, team practice. But that is far from the case. School at WHS means academics — science, mathematics, language. School at WHS means learning a skill — music, typing, shorthand, carpentry, machines.

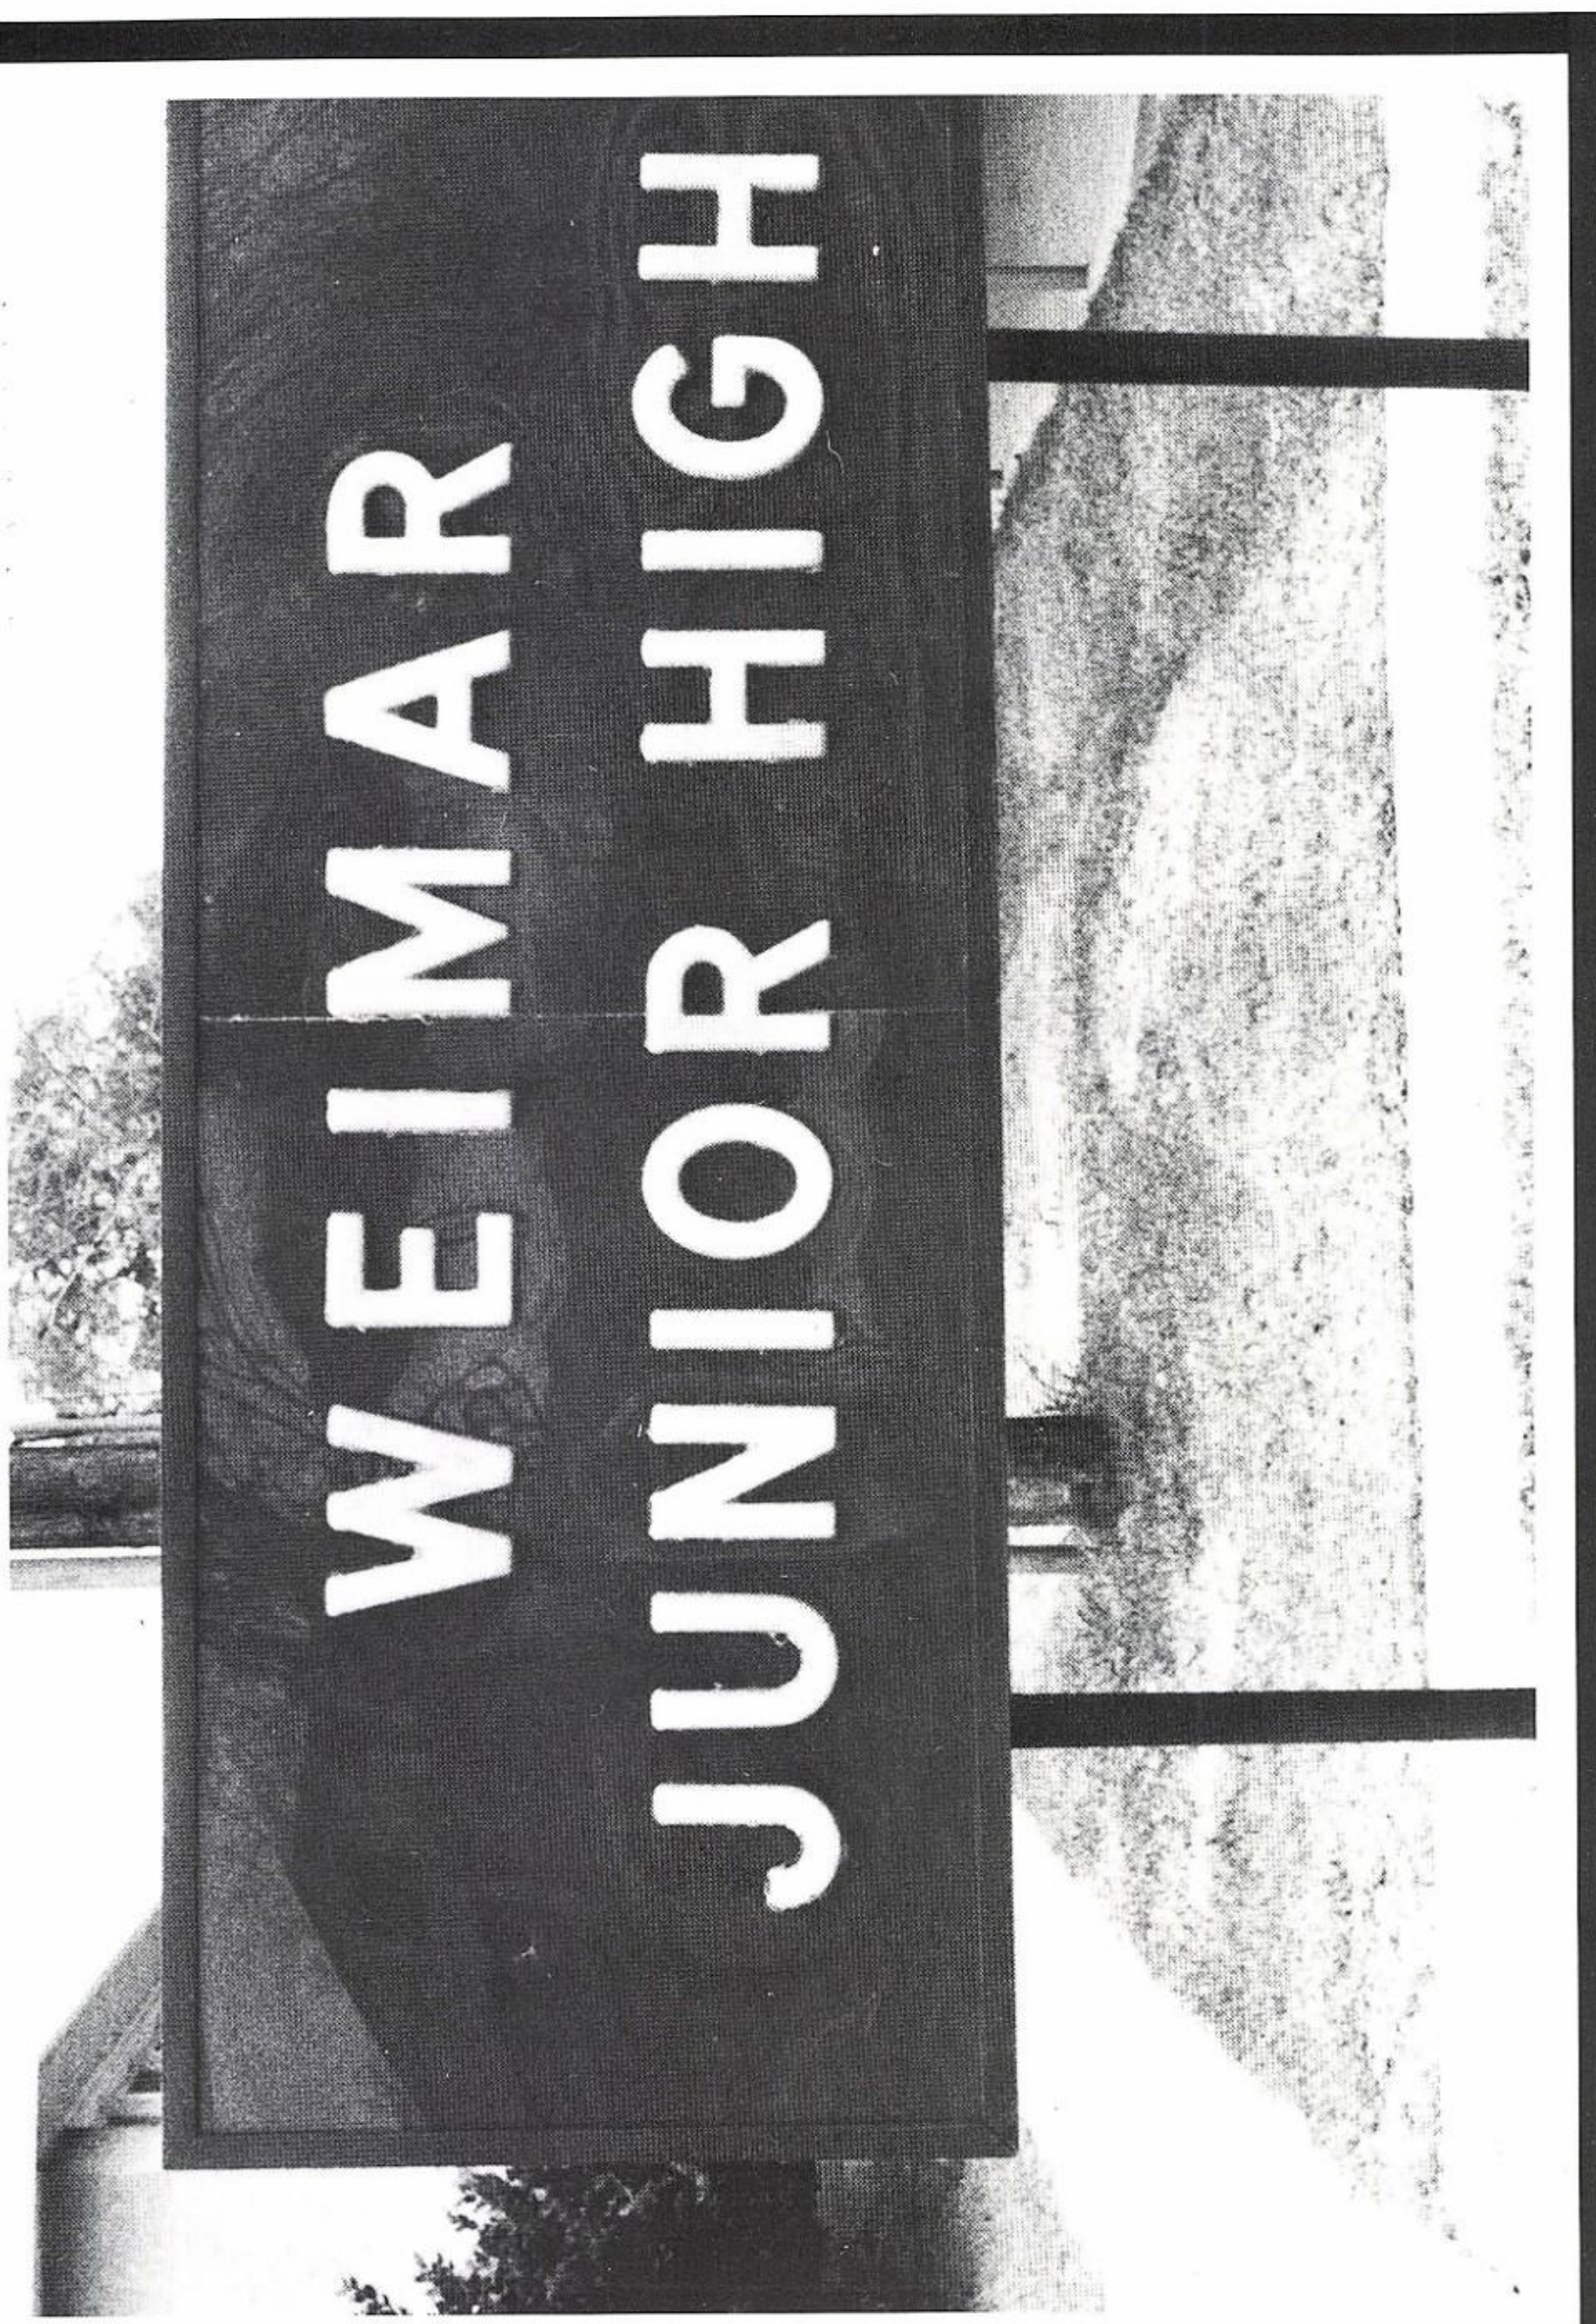

School at WHS means knowledge — history, art, drama, health. All the extras give us a chance to develop individually and with others, but the most important work goes on in the classroom with the sharing of ideas and knowledge.

At work or play, doing an experiment for science, going on a field trip, raising a banner, winning another trophy or ribbon, these are all part of the learning activities at WHS.

Jimmie,

Wow a really sweet guy who really gets what he wants most of the time. You are really a great friend to have and I don't know what I'll do without you next year! You'll have to come home to see me along with a few other people I'm sure (but I won't mention any names)! Your a great trumpet & TUBA player! Love Virginia as singer and Bass Hunter! you'll go far with your dreams let anyone trust you are tell do, because you know what is right. in your future and I hope you won't forget me once you go off to college!! I'll always remember the good times we (meaning 4 people) have had together. Don't ever forget the people you went to school with! If Hook 'em Horns! If Jimmie, It has been great to have you for a class mate these past four years. You've always been a great friend even when I've always admired you for your intelligence and musical ability. I guess everyone wishes you luck but I think you'll be a success even if they don't. Hope we can still be friends as well after High School.

I know forever and don't forget me

you what to

Love ya
Valerie

AUTOGRAPHS

Jimmie
What do you know - we are actually seniors. It seems impossible that we've been in school now for almost twelve years together. I'm glad I'm able to say we have been friends for those twelve years too. Your friendship has always and still does mean a great deal to me and I'd like to thank you for that. You're a super person, Jimmie and I expect great things of you. Stay just as you are now and the whole world can be yours. Especially a platinum album of your very own.

I know forever it seems like. I know you and your band will help you, or at least you will because you would succeed in everything you do and you will in this too. I hope we can stay friends even when you do graduate.
You know what cost, I want to have the biggest crowd on you and I'm really glad we got to be good friends and I did out grow the crowd. Good luck in everything you do because you really deserve the
